The American College of Psychiatrists

SUMMER 2020

From the President

I hope this finds each and every one of you safe and well. The Annual Meeting in February of 2020 feels like years and worlds away, and the intervening months have been unexpected and challenging for all of us. I am sure you have been concerned about the health and well-being of all around you, including family members, patients, and colleagues - and we are all concerned about the deep societal issues that have been exposed in recent months. For these reasons, it is especially good to be able to write to the Members of The College, who make up such a supportive community of colleagues and friends. No such thing as “emotional” distancing in The College!

Members of the Board of Regents have been in close contact since mid-March to determine the extent to which it is necessary to reschedule and repurpose College activities over the next year. Our primary focus has been to address efforts that protect the health of our members. To that end, we emailed a survey in late May to gauge your thoughts regarding the 2021 Annual Meeting. Based on the results of that survey and our belief that COVID-19 will still be a factor in February, we have made the difficult decision to cancel the 2021 Annual Meeting. As a result, we have suspended the meeting attendance requirement until 2022. Please know how disappointed we are to miss the chance to connect and learn together in California. We are exploring other ways of engaging with Members through this year. We welcome your thoughts and will keep you posted as plans develop.

Most of you are aware by now that we have extended the deadline for submitting new member nomination materials, which is now July 15 for this year. In addition, summer award nominations, which include the Bowis Award, Distinguished Service Award, Honorary Fellowship, and the Award for Creativity in Psychiatric Education, have been pushed back to August 15 for this year. We will celebrate the recipients virtually and again in person when we next are able to meet.

In the meantime, I am excited to announce the addition of three new College committees: the Committee on the Award for Child and Adolescent Psychiatry, which will select the recipient of a new award; the Membership Development Committee, which will focus on the recruitment of new Members and also support Members in their advancement through The College from Member to Fellow; and the Committee on Diversity and Respectful Inclusion, which is an outgrowth of The College’s focus on diversity and improving involvement of underrepresented minorities in the organization.

All three committees have already begun their important work. In fact, it was in consultation with the Committee on Diversity and Respectful Inclusion that the Board of Regents issued a statement late last month about the need to recognize systemic racism and to fight oppression and inequity in our world. You will find the full text of this statement on pages 6-7.

The Board and I have chosen to expand the number of committees in order to elevate key issues, such as respectful inclusion and diversity in The College, and in order to better serve our members. For each committee, we recently added the new position of Vice Chair to increase the number of leadership opportunities in our organization. The increased number of committee positions and leadership roles, taken together, will strengthen the inclusivity and sense of welcome in The College. Please remember that if you are looking to increase your participation in our organization, you are invited to volunteer for committee service. This is a direct pathway for advancement to leadership roles and a vehicle for shaping the culture and priorities of The College. (NB: we always try to accommodate volunteer requests within a couple of years!) The Board and I wish to express our gratitude to all who enthusiastically agree to step up and be of service to The College.

I would be remiss if I did not report that the Annual Meeting in February was really wonderful. Fort Lauderdale served as a very pleasant backdrop for our week together. Our Program Chair, Scott Aaronson, Past-President Steve Sharfstein, and the Program Committee put together a well-organized and well-thought out program, bringing us insights about pressing issues that are pertinent to psychiatry, including a well-received Wednesday morning program, themed “The Changing Paradigm of Psychopharmacology: Psychedelics, MDMA and NMDA Antagonists,” which featured plenaries by Drs. Robin Carhart-Harris, Boadie Dunlop, and James Murrough, as well as a panel for extended Q&A. There were also important updates in areas ranging from the opioid epidemic to the management of aggression and violence against healthcare workers, as well as courses and interest groups focusing on child and adolescent psychiatry, diversity in the healthcare professions, the treatment of grief, and challenges in palliative care. It was an enjoyable, topical, and engaging program, and my congratulations to Scott and Steve and the Program Committee on a job well done.

And I am proud to report that membership in The College continues to be strong. At the 2020 Meeting in Fort Lauderdale, we welcomed 41 new Members into The College and elevated six current Members to Fellowship status. Once again, the Committee on Membership has been diligent in selecting outstanding recruits in the areas of research, academic, and clinical psychiatry, and I would like to again express my sincere gratitude for their great efforts – efforts that are never taken for granted.

Communication is a vital part of bridging relationships, and the bridge between Board and Membership is the key element in ensuring that The College survives and thrives during these difficult times. Professional organizations exist to provide support and connection in equal measure. Your voice matters to us. So whether you were inducted as a Member this past February, or have been a decades-long Fellow, wherever in the world you call Lockdowns, social distancing, quarantines—it seems we're all living in a new reality along with a new lexicon to accompany it. Since mid-March, the staff and I have been working remotely, holding weekly meetings via Zoom and communicating by e-mail instead of popping into each other's offices. We miss the social aspects of working together, but have all settled into a routine at home.

Laura Roberts outlined in her column some of the adaptations The College has made to this new world we find ourselves in. In addition to extending some deadlines and canceling the Annual Meeting, the Board also decided to freeze The College's governance structure for one year. For the Board of Regents, this means that the current Officers and Board Members will stay in office for an additional year. So Laura Roberts will remain President of The College through the 2022 Annual Meeting in Naples, Larry Faulkner will continue to serve as President-Elect, Gene Beresin as First Vice President, and George Keepers as Second Vice President until that time.

The freeze will also apply to committee service. Most committee terms and chair appointments will be extended by a full year. We will be sending out an updated list of committee appointments and terms under separate cover.

Those nominated for membership in The College or for elevation to Fellow and approved by the Board this year, and those nominated next year, will be inducted in 2022. In effect, there will be a double class of New Members and Fellows recognized in Naples. The same applies to the Laughlin and PRITE Fellows—those approved in 2020 and those approved in 2021 will attend the 2022 Annual Meeting.

The 2021 winners of The College's awards—Bowis, Distinguished Service, Education, Dean, Geriatric, Mood Disorders, and Honorary Fellow—will be honored at the 2022 Annual Meeting, along with the 2022 awardees. We are exploring alternate ways to bring the 2021 awards lectures to you throughout the year and will provide updates as available.

Finally, we will not be printing a Membership Directory this year due to the difficulty of coordinating such a project remotely. However, we do offer a fully searchable directory on The College web site at <https://www.acpsych.org/membership/member-directory>.

I have found that the past several months of lockdown have put me in a reflective mood. And one of the things I'm grateful for is the role The College has played in my life over the past 14 years. I have truly enjoyed working with the Board of Regents and the Members of the Committees I staff. I've also valued getting to know the membership at the Annual Meetings. While I'm disappointed we won't have the chance to see each other in February, I look forward to the next time our paths cross.

home, and at whatever point in your career you are, I would like to sincerely extend an invitation to you to reach out to me, any Member of the Board of Regents, or any one of the staff members who keep things running smoothly on a day-to-day basis. Whether you have questions, concerns, comments, or you'd simply like to connect, know that you have a community here. You are not alone, and we are better together.

Finally, we note, with sadness, the passing of three leaders in The College. Peter F. Regan served as President of The College from 1991 to 1992; Jeffrey L. Houpt served as President from 1998 to 1999; and Stephen C. Scheiber served for several years on the Board of Regents and as Treasurer in the 1990s. They will be missed.

It is an honor and a privilege to serve as President of this organization, whether in the best of times or the most trying of times. I look forward to seeing all of you, speaking with you, and hearing about your lives when we reconvene on a brighter stretch of path just up ahead. Until then, please take care of yourselves, just as I know that you are most certainly providing support to your loved ones, patients, colleagues, neighbors and friends.

The College Selects New Board Members, Officers

The American College of Psychiatrists elected new Members to its Board of Regents and selected Board Officers at its Annual Meeting in Fort Lauderdale, Florida, on February 22, 2020. Members of the Board of Regents provide strategic leadership and oversight for the programs and future direction of The College.

Laura Roberts

Laura Roberts, M.D., M.A.: Laura Roberts was named President of The College. Dr. Roberts serves as Chairman and the Katharine Dexter McCormick and Stanley McCormick Memorial Professor in the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at the Stanford University School of Medicine. She serves as the Editor-in-Chief for American Psychiatric Association Publishing, Books Division and was recently named Editor-in-Chief of Academic Medicine. Having received her B.A. in history and M.A. in the conceptual foundations of science from the University of Chicago, she then completed her medical training and a fellowship in clinical medical ethics at the University of Chicago Pritzker School of Medicine. Dr. Roberts received her residency training in psychiatry at University of New Mexico School of Medicine, where she then joined the faculty and established the University of New Mexico Institute for Ethics. Prior to her move to Stanford, she served as the Chairman of Psychiatry and Behavioral Medicine at the Medical College of Wisconsin.

Larry R. Faulkner

Larry R. Faulkner, M.D.: Larry R. Faulkner assumed the role of President-Elect of The College. Dr. Faulkner is President and CEO of the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology. From 1994 to 2006, Dr. Faulkner served as Vice President for Medical Affairs and Dean of the School of Medicine at the University of South Carolina. Among other awards, Dr. Faulkner has received the Distinguished Service in Psychiatry Award from The American College of Psychiatrists, the Seymour Pollack Award for Distinguished Contributions to the Teaching and Education Functions of Forensic Psychiatry, and a Special Presidential Commendation for the Promotion of Psychiatric Education and Lifelong Learning from the American Psychiatric Association. Dr. Faulkner received his undergraduate education at Whitman College and attended the University of Washington School of Medicine. He completed his residency at the University of Arkansas and a fellowship at National Institute of Mental Health.

Eugene V. Beresin

Eugene V. Beresin, M.D.: Eugene V. Beresin became First Vice President of The College. Dr. Beresin is Professor of Psychiatry at Harvard Medical School and Executive Director and Founder of the Clay Center for Young Healthy Minds at Massachusetts General Hospital. He is also Director of the Elizabeth

Thatcher Acampora Endowment, an outreach program to meet the mental health needs of underserved youth and families in three community settings. Dr. Beresin received his M.A. in philosophy and M.D. from the University of Pennsylvania. Subsequently, he completed an internship in pediatrics at Yale New Haven Hospital, his residency at Massachusetts General Hospital/Harvard Medical School, and a residency in child psychiatry at Boston Children's Hospital/Judge Baker Guidance Center/Harvard Medical School.

George A. Keepers

George A. Keepers, M.D.: George A. Keepers was elected as Second Vice President of The College. Dr. Keepers is Chair of the Psychiatry Department and Carruthers Professor of Psychiatry at Oregon Health & Sciences University in Portland. He also serves as Director of OHSU's Adult Attention Deficit Disorder

Clinic. Dr. Keepers earned a B.A. from the University of Missouri in Columbia, received his medical degree from Baylor College of Medicine and completed his residency at Oregon Health Sciences University.

Barbara S. Schneidman

Barbara S. Schneidman, M.D., M.P.H.: The College elected Barbara S. Schneidman as Secretary-General of the organization. A Past-President of The College, Dr. Schneidman currently holds the position of Clinical Professor of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at the University of Washington School of Medicine. Dr. Schneidman is a graduate of the University of Minnesota Medical School from which she recently received the Distinguished Medical School Alumni Award. She is also the recipient of the Lifetime Achievement Award from the Federation of State Medical Boards. Dr. Schneidman received her master's in public health from the University of Washington School of Public Health and completed her residency in psychiatry at the University of Washington.

Robert J. Boland

Robert J. Boland, M.D: Bob Boland has joined The College's Board of Regents. Dr. Boland is the Vice Chair for Education for the Brigham and Women's Hospital Department of Psychiatry, an Associate Professor of Psychiatry at Harvard Medical School and the Director of the Brigham and Women's Hospital/Harvard

Psychiatry Residency Program. He was previously the Co-Director of the Harvard Longwood Psychiatry Residency Training Program and before that the Associate Director of Residency Training at Brown. Dr. Boland graduated from Georgetown University and Georgetown School of Medicine and completed a residency at the Institute of Living in Hartford and a fellowship in psychosomatic medicine at Georgetown/Fairfax Hospital. He currently serves on the Board of Directors of the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology.

Sidney Zisook

Sidney Zisook, M.D.: Sidney Zisook has joined The College's Board of Regents. Dr. Zisook is a Distinguished Professor of Psychiatry at UC San Diego, Director of the Healer Education, Assessment and Referral (HEAR) Program (a physician and nurse support and suicide prevention program) and the Department of Psychiatry's Wellness Director. Dr. Zisook received his bachelor of arts from the University of California at Berkeley and his medical degree from Stritch-Loyola, Chicago. He completed his residency in Psychiatry at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston and was a clinical fellow of Harvard Medical School.

Eligible for Emeritus Status?

If you are over 70 or fully retired, you are eligible for Emeritus status in The College.

As an Emeritus Member or Emeritus Fellow, you are no longer obligated to attend one of every three Annual Meetings or pay Active Member dues of $420 (although we do suggest making a voluntary dues contribution of $75).

Although Emeritus Members and Fellows may vote on all matters coming before the membership and serve on committees, they are not eligible to hold elective office or serve as a committee chairperson.

If you would like to be considered for Emeritus status, please contact Angel Waszak, angel@acpsych.org.

The College Issues Statement on Systemic Racism

The senseless murders of George Floyd, Ahmaud Arbery, and Breonna Taylor, among many others, have laid bare, once again, the inequity and systemic racism faced by Black or African-American people in the United States on a daily basis. As a leading voice in psychiatry, The American College of Psychiatrists condemns racism and oppression of marginalized people, whatever form they take, and joins with its sister psychiatric and medical organizations in calling for meaningful and sustained change to fight inequity.

To that end, on June 19, The American College of Psychiatrists Board of Regents, upon the recommendation of the Committee on Diversity and Respectful Inclusion, voted unanimously to support the AAMC Statement on Police Brutality and Racism in America and Their Impact on Health and the Joint Statement issued by AAP/AADPRT/ADMSEP/AACDP on Police Brutality and Racism in America.

These statements follow in their entirety:

AAMC Statement on Police Brutality and Racism in America and Their Impact on Health

David J. Skorton, MD, president and CEO of the AAMC (Association of American Medical Colleges) and David A. Acosta, MD, AAMC chief diversity and inclusion officer, released the following statement:

“For too long, racism has been an ugly, destructive mark on America’s soul. Throughout our country’s history, racism has affected every aspect of our collective national life—from education to opportunity, personal safety to community stability, to the health of people in our cities large and small, and in rural America.

Over the past three months, the coronavirus pandemic has laid bare the racial health inequities harming our Black communities, exposing the structures, systems, and policies that create social and economic conditions that lead to health disparities, poor health outcomes, and lower life expectancy.

Now, the brutal and shocking deaths of George Floyd, Breonna Taylor, and Ahmaud Arbery have shaken our nation to its core and once again tragically demonstrated the everyday danger of being Black in America. Police brutality is a striking demonstration of the legacy racism has had in our society over decades. This violence has eroded trust of the police within Black and other communities of color who are consistently victims of marginalization, focused oppression, racial profiling, and egregious acts of discrimination.

Our country must unite to combat and dismantle racism and discrimination in all its forms and denounce race-related violence, including police brutality. Enough is enough.

As healers and educators of the next generation of physicians and scientists, the people of America’s medical schools and teaching hospitals bear the responsibility to ameliorate factors that negatively affect the health of our patients and communities: poverty, education, access to transportation, healthy food, and health care.

Racism is antithetical to the oaths and moral responsibilities we accepted as health professionals who have dedicated our lives to advancing the health of all, especially those who live in vulnerable communities.

As leaders of anchor institutions in our communities, academic medicine’s physicians, educators, hospital leaders, faculty, researchers, learners, and staff must lead by example and take bold action in partnership with the communities we serve:

- We must acknowledge and speak out against all forms of racism, discrimination, and bias in our environments in our institutions, communities, and society.
- We must stand in solidarity with the Black community and speak out against unjust and inhumane incidents of violence.
- We must demonstrate empathy and compassion and acknowledge the pain and grief that the families and the communities of these victims are experiencing.
- We must take the lead in educating ourselves and others to address these issues head-on.
- We must be deliberate and partner with local communities, public health agencies, and municipal governments to dismantle structural racism and end police brutality.
- We must employ anti-racist and unconscious bias training and engage in interracial dialogues that will dispel the misrepresentations that dehumanize our Black community members and other marginalized groups.
- We must move from rhetoric to action to eliminate the inequities in our care, research, and education of tomorrow’s doctors.

The AAMC stands against racism and hate in all its forms, and we call on academic medicine to stand together on this issue. We are committed to harnessing all of our resources to catalyze meaningful and lasting solutions. We can no longer be bystanders. We must not be silent. But while our solidarity is necessary, it is not sufficient. Together, and in partnership with the communities we serve, we must work together to heal our nation.”

Academic Psychiatry Education Associations Issue Joint Statement on Systemic Racism

The recent killings of George Floyd, Ahmaud Arbery, and Breonna Taylor are a tragic reminder of the systemic racism and violence that people of color have suffered for centuries, and what has been ignored for far too long. As a community of academic psychiatrists, it is our duty as physicians to combat structural racism and the subsequent inequities in health care delivery and outcomes. As psychiatrists, we must address the trauma caused by racism and discrimination, and their adverse effects on mental health and well-being. We must incorporate these topics into our curricula, listen to our trainees and colleagues of color, and speak out against racist actions, attitudes, and biases. As academicians, we must educate our leaders, colleagues, and students about the detrimental effects of racism, and provide solutions on how to eliminate this “cancer” in our society. We stand with the Association of American Medical Colleges’ statement in pledging the following:

- We must stand in solidarity with the Black community and speak out against unjust and inhumane incidents of violence.
- We must demonstrate empathy and compassion and acknowledge the pain and grief that the families and the communities of these victims are experiencing.
- We must take the lead in educating ourselves and others to address these issues head-on.
- We must be deliberate and partner with local communities, public health agencies, and municipal governments to dismantle structural racism and end police brutality.
- We must employ anti-racist and unconscious bias training and engage in interracial dialogues that will dispel the misrepresentations that dehumanize our Black community members and other marginalized groups.
- We must move from rhetoric to action to eliminate the inequities in our care, research, and education of tomorrow’s doctors.

From Membership to Fellowship—The Next Step

Ilisse R. Perlmutter

Chair

Membership Committee

Membership in The College is, I am certain you'll agree, an enormous professional honor, reflecting outstanding achievement and recognition in psychiatry. I know you all remember how you felt when you were nominated and accepted into this wonderful organization. The Annual Meetings are always well-attended, offering state-of-the-art medical education, a time for connecting and catching up with dear friends, and networking with colleagues from all over the country.

But there is more to being a part of The College. I'm referring specifically to elevation to Fellowship, an honor given to Members who are actively involved in and have made contributions to The College and to our field. This can mean many things: for example, being a Member for at least five years, attending Annual Meetings regularly, serving on one or more College Committees, or presenting at an Annual Meeting. Members contribute to the field or the community in a myriad of ways, depending on their own practices and skills.

Some of you are thinking, "Why bother? I'm a Member. That's enough." None of you came into The College by being passive, drifting along with the status quo! Whether you are teaching and creating educational programs, skillfully supervising and counseling other clinicians, breaking ground with new research, or expanding horizons by new ventures, you continue to demonstrate your leadership in psychiatry. Many of you speak on significant mental health issues, consult to various medical societies, and further public understanding of psychiatric illness.

Becoming a Fellow enables you to have a bigger impact on our organization. Fellows serve as Main Sponsors for new Members and Fellows. They may hold elective office in The College, be a member of the Board of Regents, and may serve as a committee chairperson.

How do you become a Fellow? Four Members must nominate a candidate for elevation to Fellowship; at least two must be Fellows, and preferably all four, if possible. The Membership Committee reviews the applications and submits recommendations to the Board of Regents, which makes the decision whether to elevate an individual to Fellow status. In reviewing the applications, the Membership Committee looks for active involvement in The College, active contribution to the work of The College, and sustained contribution to the field or the community---all the things described above. (You can find more details on The College Web site.)

When I spoke to the new Members and Fellows at this year's Annual Meeting, I urged all of them to attend meetings, serve on committees, and make The College their own. Elevation to Fellowship is the next step.
